

STALKING: Connecting the Dots¹

Attorneys | Is your client experiencing stalking?

STALKING IS: A course of conduct directed at a specific person that creates an implicit or explicit threat and induces fear or concern for personal safety or the safety of close others.

5.2 million women and 1.4 million men will be stalked each year

Many victims do not use the term “stalking” but they describe stalking behaviors including:

SURVEILLANCE

Following, showing up, spying, using technology to keep tabs on the victim

LIFE INVASION

Repeated unwanted contact in person or by phone, text, email, card/note, message, third party, and social media

INTIMIDATION

Implicit and explicit threats, third party threats, forced confrontations, property damage, and threatened suicide

INTERFERENCE

Disruption of the victim’s life professionally and socially as well as physical and sexual attacks

LOOK FOR:

Connections:

- The perpetrator showing up unexpectedly at places the victim goes or incidents that suggest the perpetrator might be following or tracking the victim
- Indications that the perpetrator is using technology, such as spyware, to monitor, harass, intimidate, sabotage, or stalk the victim
- Repeated “coincidental” incidents, such as vandalism to the victim’s car or property
- Other crimes that often intersect with stalking (protective order violations, partner abuse, property damage)
- Threats, especially those that suggest a disregard of consequences (such as arrest, jail, physical harm)

Victim resistance: Telling the stalker she/he wants no contact; changing phones, residence, workplace, locks, social groups; altering life to prevent contact

Stalker persistence: Repeated attempts by the perpetrator to contact the victim after the victim has directly or indirectly indicated she/he does not want to be contacted and harassed

Fear: Heightened fear on the part of the victim for themselves or others close to him/her, even though she/he might not have been physically assaulted or explicitly threatened

Impact on Life: The victim’s personal, professional, financial, social, and/or academic life and relationships have changed or been disrupted because of the perpetrator

Women are more likely to be victims of stalking

Men are more likely to be stalkers regardless of victim gender

? THINGS TO ASK:

About the Course of Conduct

1. Is he/she following you, watching you, showing up unexpectedly, or communicating with you in ways that seem obsessive or make you concerned for your safety?
2. Has he/she repeatedly initiated unwanted contact with you (e.g., repeated phone calls, texts, messages, emails, gifts, etc. or through third parties)?
3. Has he/she threatened you or done other things to intimidate you? What has he/she done that has frightened or alarmed you?

NOTE: If victims describe behavior that does not superficially appear to be threatening/annoying, ask them why the behavior was frightening to them. Why does the victim perceive the behavior as a threat?

4. Has he/she significantly and directly interfered with your life? Has he/she assaulted you while he/she has been stalking, harassing, or threatening you? Has he/she forcibly kept you from leaving or held you against your will, caused you to have a serious accident, physically assaulted your friends or family members or seriously attacked you in other ways?

About Threats

5. Have there been any threats to harm you? Threats to harm others you are close to?
6. Have there been threats to destroy property, harm pets, or to sabotage you in other ways?
7. Have there been any threats of suicide by the perpetrator if you don't do what he wants?

About Fear and Concern for Safety

8. Has his/her actions made you afraid for your safety?
9. Have you changed your life in any way because you are afraid? If so, how? (ex., installed door locks, cameras, lights; moved; changed jobs; altered schedules; don't go out, etc.)
10. What are you most afraid of happening?

KEY QUESTION

What would make you feel safer: in your home? In your workplace/school? During child exchanges/visits? Other situations?

TAKE STEPS FOR PROTECTION:

See it/acknowledge it as stalking
(Check the Stalking and Harassment Assessment Risk Profile at www.StalkingRisk.com)

Avoid minimizing or downplaying safety concerns and threats

Preserve evidence and document stalking behaviors in a safe way
(check the websites below for documentation logs and tips)

Plan for safety by thinking through specific threats and vulnerabilities
(the goal to make it as difficult as possible for the perpetrator to stalk her/him)

Seek support through trusted friends, family, or victim advocates
